Open-Source:

There are hundreds if not thousands of posts, messages, tweets, comments, and so on across numerous social media platforms of general unhappiness towards Administrator Pruitt, surrounding what many perceive to be his controversial positions on topics such as climate change, energy, and the environment, and also due to a slew of negative attention directed toward the Administrator in the media. While many of these posts go so far as to wish for the Administrator's death; to date, no evidence of a direct threat to the Administrator's life or physical well-being has been uncovered.
